St Agnes - 21st January

St Agnes is one of the Italian girl martyrs of the fourth century persecutions. The sources describe her as a thirteen-year-old who refused marriage owing to her dedication to Christ. Like St Maria Goretti sixteen hundred years later, she preferred death to any violation of her virginity. Denuounced to the Roman authorities she was executed by piercing of the throat. The combination of supernatural faith with innocence is, we can speculate peculiarly aggravating to the evil powers. However, the Church regards this combination of great faith and innocence as especially blessed. They say that grace builds on nature. In St Agnes' case she must have had an inbuilt moral integrity which allowed grace a very firm foothold. Without this such a tender young girl could not have withstood all the might of Rome and morally conquered.

All of this is recognized symbolically in the moving ceremony carried out on this day every year in Rome. The Pope goes to the Basilica of St Agnes. While the choir sings the antiphon Stans a dextris eius Agnus nivis candidior, "On her right stands the Lamb whiter than snow", two white lambs are brought into the sanctuary. They are blessed by the Pope and then cared for until shearing time.

From their wool is woven the pallia or triangular stoles sent to metropolitans, bishops of major sees, throughout the Western church as a sign of their union with the Church's centre in Rome. Decoded, this custom is a statement that power and authority in the Church are, for their fruitful exercise, radically dependent on humility, integrity, and true innocence. All the virtues that St Agnes displayed.
