Canon's Ramblings

I ended last week's ramblings with a mention that Bishop Patrick had paid a visit to St Augustine Webster as part of the school Golden Jubilee celebrations. The Bishop celebrated Mass for the school and at the end of Mass he presented David Lisle with the new diocesan St Hugh's award in recognition of his long service as a Governor. Congratulations David and thank you.

We woke on Monday morning to the news that there had been another terrorist atrocity in our country this time directed against Muslims who were leaving a place of prayer. I took the opportunity to visit two of the mosques in our immediate neighbourhood to reassure the community of our thoughts at this time. This weekend our Muslim neighbours will be celebrating the feast of Eid which marks the end of Ramadan. Look out for some colourful clothing on display!
